

Additional exploitation concessions approved for Vittangi graphite deposits

Talga Group Ltd (“Talga” or “the Company”) (ASX:TLG) is pleased to announce the approval of exploitation concessions for its Nunasvaara North, Niska South and Niska North natural graphite deposits, part of the Company’s integrated Vittangi Graphite Project in Sweden.

The Mining Inspectorate of Sweden (Bergsstaten) issued the positive ruling this week, granting Talga the right to conduct graphite mining activities at Nunasvaara North, Niska South and Niska North for an initial term of 25 years, with provisions for extensions (Figure 1).

The granting of these mining concessions strengthens Talga's position in advancing sustainable graphite production for the global battery markets, however development of these deposits will only proceed subject to securing full environmental permitting prior to any extraction activities. Talga has initiated this process, with ongoing baseline environmental data collection and related preparatory work underway.

Under Swedish statutory processes, the exploitation concession decisions are subject to appeals that may be lodged to the Swedish Government’s Ministry of Climate and Enterprise within a five-week period.

Talga Group CEO, Martin Phillips, commented: “We welcome this decision from the Mining Inspectorate of Sweden, which bolsters our ability to strengthen Sweden and Europe's supply of graphite – a critical and strategic raw material essential for society’s green transition. The technical and environmental studies of the new concessions will continue in parallel with our main focus, establishment of mining operations at Nunasvaara South and anode production in Luleå.”

About Talga

Talga Group Ltd (ASX:TLG / OTCQX:TLGRF) is a global leader in producing high-power, sustainable battery anode and advanced graphitic materials. Our capabilities include proprietary graphite purification, shaping and coating technologies, ensuring secure and low-emission Li-ion battery anode supply chains and new-energy materials. Talga's products and technologies solve battery manufacturing challenges such as supply vulnerabilities, performance limitations and recyclability, thereby accelerating the shift to more secure critical mineral product manufacturing.
